

Group review of papers

Rewriting exercises

1. Our analysis of the results of the experiment did not provide an explanation of its failure, because our data collection lacked the precision needed.
2. The results are indicative that the data are representative of the population.
3. The author's analysis of our data omits any citation of sources that would provide support for his criticism of our argument.

Reviewing exercises

1. Compare these two sentences.

a. "Once upon a time, a walking through the woods occurred, when a jump out from behind a tree caused surprise."

b. "Once upon a time, a walking through the woods occurred, when a jump out from behind a tree by a lupine creature caused surprise in a very youthful female."

Reviewing exercises

2. "The phonetic transcription is related by the rules of the phonological component to a string of formatives with labeled bracketing which represents the surface syntactic structure of the sentence. We will now examine in some detail the manner in which these formatives are represented in a linguistic description."

Abstract

This paper discusses the similarities and differences within American and Korean cultures with a focus on politeness. Although politeness is used across both cultures there are differences among the formalities used within each. In this paper you will find examples of the cultural norms that express commonalities between the cultures but which also involve different levels of norms that separate the two.

Abstract

To conclude, emotional disturbance affects a person's everyday life. Emotional disturbance causes behavioral problems which then causes disorder in one's life, and ability to properly learn and create/maintain relationships. However, with the proper help those with emotional disturbance can be aided in order to better control his/her symptoms.

In conclusion, promoting students to engage and register to beneficial programs like SEL for emotional disturbance is necessary. Even if students are not enrolled in such programs, it is roll of a teacher to execute various traits and practices to assure and secure their success. However, key point of all this is for teachers to know every student in a personal level. Checking students' education background to understand what causes bad behavior is needed. When teachers establish visible classroom rules and give guide line to provide self-discipline, it may have both positive and negative consequences.